Packing, preparation and crate management

Information technology and data comms

Britannia fully understands just how important your IT systems are to the running of your company. It is because we recognise the fragility of computers and their components that we use the best methods and materials available for the protection and wrapping of these items.

If you do not have your own IT technicians we can arrange the decommissioning of the IT equipment for you. Once your computers are decommissioned we would then pack the components into anti-static bags before packing them into Technoboxes or Computer Crates.

If you have asked us to decommission your computers we would then recommission them into their new positions, making sure that everything is working correctly ready for your employees to resume work on time. We can arrange your computers and other electrical equipment to be PAT tested prior to being reconnected at the new offices.

However large or small your computer network, you can be sure that Britannia has expertise and support structure in place to help keep downtime to a minimum and get your company back to work in the least possible time.

Vehicles to suit every move

Perfect preparation

With Britannia you can be confident that you have chosen a mover who will ensure that the protection of your premises can be an integral part of your relocation. The level of protection must be agreed with our surveyor in advance.

Protective materials can be applied to agreed areas, in both origin and destination buildings, from the main doorways, along main walkways to the distribution points.

Generally floor protection consists of a lightweight hard wearing cellular plastic sheet, or hardboard sheets taped in place to provide a protective barrier against dirt and dust in carpeted areas and scratches or tears to vinyl coverings. In the case of marble floors or similar highly polished surfaces a cushioned membrane can be applied between the floor and the protective sheet.

Vertical surfaces such as walls, lifts, glass panels/screens or stairways can be covered with either padded paper blankets or protective sheeting. Both types of protection are held in place with low adhesion masking tape.

Doors and frames can be protected with custom made padded nylon protectors, held in place using spring clips or “Velcro” straps. This type of protection enables full, unobstructed use of doorways at all times.

Upon completion of the move all the materials will be removed from the buildings.

Office furniture and Archive Document Storage

Records management

Most offices and commercial properties have to be cost effective in their use of available space. The mandatory record keeping requirements and the need to keep client records for the long term can often mean bulk filing areas are required. Britannia can assist with freeing up space in your own premises by taking your paperwork into off site archive storage.

Our archive storage units are purpose built, safe and secure. A wide range of options are available to suit your specific needs. Some clients are moving towards electronic storage using document scanning to produce the 'paperless office' whilst others require storage of hard copy, which may need to be retrieved within hours or days, or alternatively may not be touched for years. Our Archive Management teams will be able to find the best, most cost effective solution for you.

At Britannia we aim to make access to stored documentation swift and flexible in line with the demands of the modern business environment. Our fully integrated retrieval systems, keen response times and distribution methodologies are designed to suit the needs of your business in any circumstance.
